Better health care – and better health – take team work. Know what you and your doctor can do to improve your health. Talk to your doctor. Ask questions. Our doctors want you to ask questions!

Quick Tips

At Your Visit:

- Bring a list of your questions, with the most important ones first. Give it to your doctor at the beginning of your visit – or ask your questions at the beginning so you won't run out of time.
- Ask questions about what your doctor tells you. If you don't, your doctor may think you understand what she said, when you may not.
- If your doctor gives you a lot of information, ask him to write it down. Then you'll remember what he said when you get home!
- Ask your doctor who you can call after your visit if you have more questions.
- Make your next appointment or schedule any tests your doctor ordered before you leave the office so you don't forget.

After Your Visit:

- Call if your symptoms get worse or you have problems with your medicine.
- If you had tests done, call the doctor's office in a timely way if you haven't received the results.
